

The Seven Habits of a Highly Effective Team now includes The 8th Habit taking the individual and team from Effectiveness to Greatness all done interactively in 90 minutes! Each Habit/point is introduced in less than 5 minutes together with a 5 minute short effective interactive that assists team players in remembering useful information while enjoying experiencing each other on a new level. Some of your current team targets, goals, and issues can be included. Jeff Werner and his personality makes this a fun effective memorable event! Vision, respect, understanding, and communication are presented in a very fun and effective way! Stephen Covey's books define the value and principle based paradigm in a new way empowering the individual, family, or team to seek new levels of effectiveness and interdependent greatness!

Team Link

This event also takes 90 minutes and interactively and recreationally builds relationships and creates new ones with everyone present engaged in similar activities to the 8 Habits with less structure. Partner activities and team activities engage group or team members on a fun level without being strenuous or too silly. The focus is on your group or team and enjoying each other having fun and experiencing each other in a celebratory way. Depending on your group the activities and delivery vary depending on what type of work they do and what type of personalities exist in your group. Creativity is explored in addition to respectful fun levels of communicating creating a better level of team come Monday morning after your event! All activities are short and sweet and effective!

Incredible Super Hero!

90 minutes and you will redefine who you all are within the realm of each team creating, presenting, and demonstrating who they designed as their teams Incredible Super Hero. This cartoon like character is a costume designed and fabricated on the body of one of each teams select representative. Each team must design costume within certain parameters including several characteristics and representational items related to your company finally demonstrating a super power from a magical super power implement or magic wand that demonstrates at least one item related to your company. This is a load of fun and becomes very playful with presentation and photo moments icing the cake. One optional upgrade is addition of a professional face painter who does face of each teams Incredible Super Hero and all team members partner up and do each partners face with professionals guidance!